Come out and join the Nashville Sounds on June 13th as they host the Memphis Redbirds at the 2009 Nashville Sounds “Go Green Night” at Greer Stadium. As part of the event, Sounds players will wear special green-colored uniforms during the game and the team will auction those off during the game, with proceeds benefitting the Nashville Sounds Foundation’s charitable efforts.

Representatives from NES will be on hand at the ballpark to help fans learn the importance of “going green” and demonstrate ways in which they can become more energy-efficient in their everyday lives. Fans will have the opportunity to visit booths from local companies to learn how Nashville businesses are leading the way to become more environmentally aware.

Throughout the evening the Sounds will broadcast public address announcements to inform fans how to save money through simple “Green” steps in their homes. Fans are encouraged to wear green shirts to show support for environmental awareness in the Nashville community.
